

Roots Down

New Bedford

what:

A free monthly series focusing on sustainable gardening techniques.

why:

To help new and experienced gardeners gain a deeper understanding of methods used in healthy food production.

To help build local food security for our community.

when:

4PM on the first Tuesday of every month through November

Fall 2009 Schedule

Sept 1: Short and Sweet Salad Greens: Seeds to Sow in September and Extending the Season with Row Covers

Oct 6: Improving Your Soil: Cover Crops, Fall Fertilizers and Soil Amendments for Organic Gardens

Nov 3: Wintertime Tasks for a Terrific 2010 Vegetable Garden: Mulching, Reviewing the Season and an Organic Garden Reading List.

Have a Great Winter! We plan to resume Roots Down New Bedford Workshops in March 2010. Visit the Brix Bounty Farm Blog – <http://brixbounty.blogspot.com> for our 2010 schedule, which will be announced next February.

where:

Lawler Branch Public Library at 745 Rockdale (NE Corner of Buttonwood Park). Accessible by SRTA bus routes #6 and #10

Roots Down - New Bedford is part of the Safe Soils for Healthy Food Project presented by Brix Bounty Farm and the Rotch-Jones-Duff House&Garden Museum and is made possible by the Community Foundation of Southeastern Massachusetts - SEEAL Fund.

For more information please contact Brix Bounty Farm at 508-992-1868 or visit the farm blog at <http://brixbounty.blogspot.com/>